

One without a second

This document is intended to help me understand the concept of there is one without a second and you are that. By writing and organising my thoughts here I hope to reach a greater understanding of a belief that I feel inexplicably drawn towards.

This document is open-ended and on-going. I don't imagine it will ever be complete and it will build only gradually. The literature in this area is too great for me to possibly cover and consequently I can only include that which has a resonance with myself. Hopefully this work forms an aid in helping me live this life and understand this life as well as I am able. If someone stumbles across it online then I can only hope they find it useful.
